Dear Sir

I take the liberty of trespassing again upon your patience with a package containing some of my most interesting papers of the preceding the last year. Among them I refer to Ancistrus Castaneus I'm apparently found in our State for the first time and is the two grasses mentioned in the following or rather included list as "72" & "73". Both were pretty old when produced. If they are anything new or particularly interesting I would visit the locality earlier this year. I shall make an effort to do so. What aid I can in determining the question of identity or non-identity of Andropogon & Linum. Very truly yours
